The cost underrun.

It's the development contract for the Army's CH-47D helicopter, a new Chinook generation for advanced performance and service. After nearly $50 million worth of work extending over 31 months, this remanufactured aircraft reaches its rollout milestone almost half a million dollars under budget.

At the same time, it is rolling out fully four months ahead of schedule. Every one of the D Model's six previous production milestones has been reached well before target dates. It's Boeing know-how and can-do, hard at work to give the Army more value for its dollar.

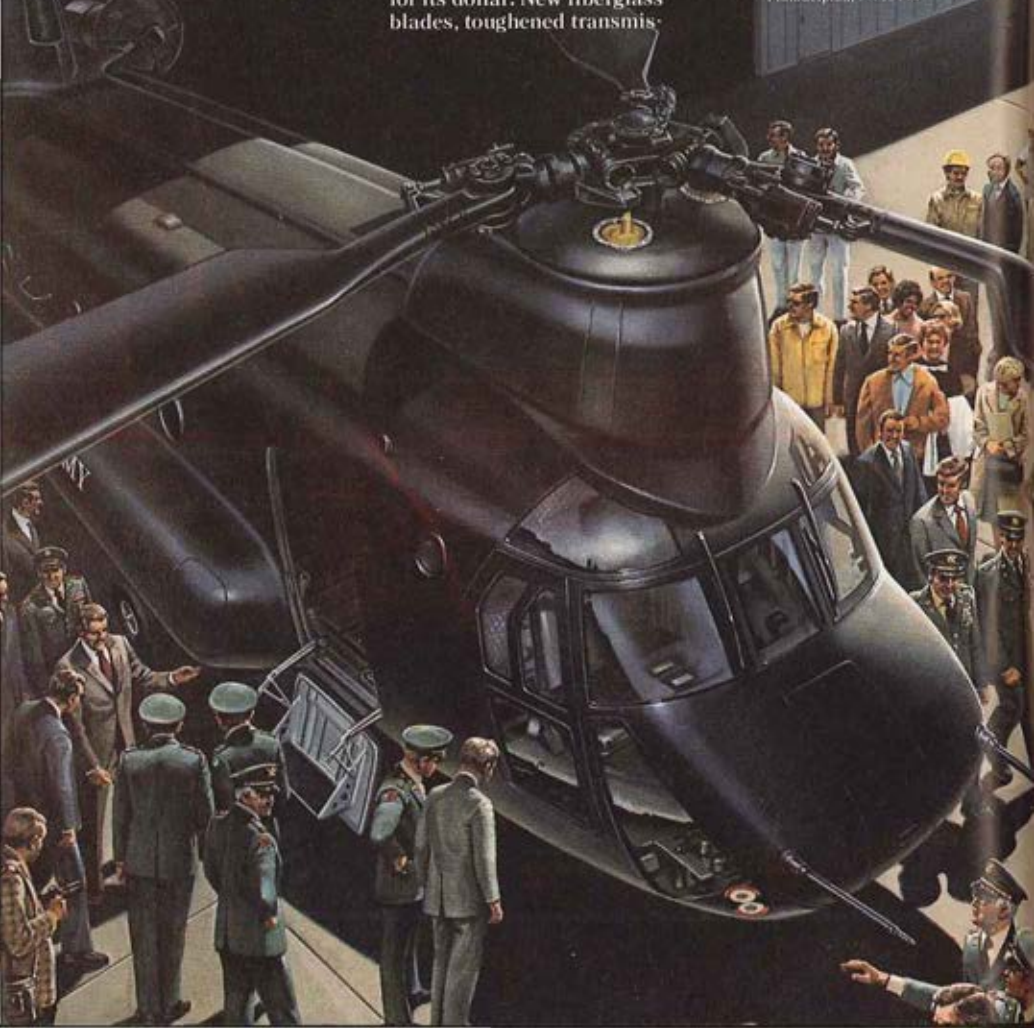

And the 47D will give the Army more performance for its dollar. New fiberglass blades, toughened transmissions, advanced avionics, and other improvements will keep the Chinook up front as effective support for the ground commander.

Ahead of time, on cost, beating objectives. Because there's no budget on Boeing performance.

BG Carl H. McNair, Jr., the DA Aviation Officer, calls the '79 AAAA Convention . .

The absolute best I have seen!

THE 21st AAAA National Convention has come and gone, but it is far from forgotten!

The Atlanta-1979 AAAA meeting proved to be the absolute best I have seen — both from the professional programming point of view and the social opportunities.

The many industrial exhibits and the wide range of wives' activities rounded out what many called "a perfect convention." . . Our hats are off to GEN Shoemaker and the entire FORSCOM team for a splendid performance.

If you missed this one, DON'T miss the next because I understand the AAAA National Board has voted to return to Atlanta in 1980 . .

Congratulations!

More good news during the past month. First, congratulations are in order to the four Army Aviators recently nominated for promotion to Major General.

They are BG Orlando Gonzalez, Assistant DCS, Military Airlift Command; BG James H. Patterson, Assistant Commandant of the Army Aviation School; BG Harold I. Small, J-4, Readiness Command; and BG Jack A. Walker, ADC, 9th Infantry Division.

In addition, 17 Army Aviators were selected for 06 level command in FY 80.

They were Aviation Commands: David J. Allen, James H. Kitterman, Wayne C. Knudson, and Andrew J. Miller.

Field Artillery: Gus Cianciolo.
Infantry/Armor Commands: Don Chunn and Jack T. Clark.

Engineer Command: Lee Little.
DISCOM's: James M. Hesson, Albert B. Luster, Duane N. Smith, and John H. Stanford.

General Support Troop Command: Robert L. White.

TC Troop Commands: George A. Brown and Michael J. Pepe.

Proving Ground: John F. Zugschwert.

Terminal: Robert A. Lawson.

We all look forward to these selectees assuming their position of leadership in the months ahead.

Extra caution needed

With summer now bearing down on us, the high flying hour, heavy training months are now with us and extra - extra caution must be exercised to preclude our accident rate from creeping up. This applies not only to our Reserve Components but equally to the active units whose pace picks up significantly in support of summer training.

During the recent Fifth Army Standardization and Training Conference (which was a splendid, most professional event by the way) in San Antonio, I heard COL Ed Waldron, Safety Center Commander, outline what the Center has done to assist units in forestalling the "summer slump."

It is an outstanding exportable package complete with movies/tapes and I highly recommend each unit avail themselves of it. Makes a safety officer's day and should pay great dividends in your unit's safety consciousness.

By the way, did you know that the accident rate for Army Aviation in FY 57 was 54.3 accidents per 100,000 hours and in FY 77 it was 5.4, which represents a ten-fold decrease?

A real tribute to today's aviation professionals - and where are those folks who long for the "good old days"?

But seriously, such a dramatic reduction could not have been possible without a scientific, disciplined, soldierly approach to flying safety. With that, I might add that we slipped up a bit in FY 78 to a rate of 6.2, but indications are that we have turned it around this year.

As many of you have learned, Army Aviation is moving rapidly towards another significant first — with the scheduled trans-Atlantic self-deployment of a flight of CH-47C helicopters to Europe in August. Detailed planning and training is currently underway for four aircraft from the 179th Aviation Company, Fort Carson, to self-deploy via the North Atlantic Route.

While the Army has made Atlantic crossings with fixed wing aircraft for years, this will be the first European CH-47 rotary wing self-deployment.

For those with good memories, you will recall that CH-47's of the 101st Airborne Division under then Battalion Commander COL Gus Cianciolo demonstrated long range, over water helicopter self-deployment to Puerto Rico in the early '70's.

And during a recent visit to Fort Campbell, LTC Larry Karjala, current Commander, 159th Aviation Battalion, showed me his unit training with these same CH-47's that made the ferry flight. They are still going strong and the 159th has a great record in training and in operations.

On a recent field exercise, the entire battalion returned to home station with every aircraft flyable - quite an accomplishment for any unit, but particularly noteworthy in view of the age, hours and heavy use of their aircraft. (Another significant CH-47 milestone occurred with "First Flight" of the CH-47D on 11 May — four months ahead of schedule! Congratulations to Project Manager COL Jim Hesson and the Boeing Vertol team.)

At the 101st, I was also fortunate enough to visit "A" Company, 229th on the gunnery range and fly the "all up" AH-1S with 20mm gun and universal turret. A great experience and thanks to a fine SIP, Chief Warrant Officer "Top Gun" Gore, I am pleased to report all rounds went down range and the Battalion Commander, LTC Dick McQuestion, breathed a sign of relief.

My day also included stops with the two lift battalions, the 158th under the command of LTC Bill Golding and the 101st Aviation Battalion under LTC Jim Brayboy. Deployment of one UH-1 company to Panama was underway and the troops were doing a record job of loading aircraft — visible evidence of their "air" mobility.

SITE SELECTION

In a mail ballot in early May in which 44 of its 48 members participated, AAAA's National Executive Board voted to conduct the 1980 AAAA National Convention at an Atlanta, Ga. facility.

My visit also included a dinner meeting with the Air Assault Chapter, AAAA's largest chapter, and what a turnout! It was evident that AAAA and Army Aviation comprise a moving force at Campbell. Well done to the "Screaming Eagles"! Air Assault, Sir!

Meanwhile, back at DA, the field is now responding to the recently validated listing of 1979 TDA officer operational flying positions. As indicated in my recent article, some positions were not validated due to a lack of justification or demonstration of continued requirement. As commands respond, those positions being questioned and rejustified will be placed before the Aviation Position Review Work Group and the Review Committee.

It is anticipated that some of these positions will be restored subject to command verification. Current criteria for operational flying positions is established under the statutory provisions of the Aviation Career Incentive Act of 1974 and simply stated, flying must be essential in the accomplishment of assigned duties for a position to be verified.

On the personnel scene, we continue to experience a shortage of WO and company grade aviators. However the Aviation Center is rapidly expanding its training base to accommodate our increased training rates. MILPERCEN and RCPAC have been locating former IP's and aspiring IP's for transfer to Fort Rucker to assist in the expansion. If you have yearned to return to Rucker for a tour and are strong IP material, this is your opportunity.

Having served a tour there myself, it is indeed gratifying to see fledglings mature into skilled professional WO and commissioned aviators through the initial entry rotary wing course. There is a great sense of pride in being a part of that process so vital to our aviation force, and the IP is at the heart of the process.

SC 15 revision underway

Final note — Implementation of the Chief of Staff's decision on the SC 15, Aviation Career Pattern, is now well underway. MILPERCEN is in the midst of realigning the personnel management officers for aviators and they line up like this: LTC George Morgan, new Chief, Aviation Branch Assignments, Company Grade Combat Arms Division; MAJ Floyd Edwards, SC 15, Majors' Division; and recently designated and reassigned LTC Bill Bacon, SC 15, LTCs' Division. With these and other personnel management changes being effected, aviation now truly becomes an accession specialty entity — a true combat arms specialty of its own — a well due recognition. ◀

Teamwork just doesn't happen!

GENERAL Williams, award winners, fellow soldiers, friends of Army Aviation, ladies and gentlemen.

It's a great pleasure for me to have this opportunity once again to participate on this occasion as we recognize those outstanding soldiers and civilians who have made contributions in, to, and for Army Aviation.

It also gives me the opportunity to recognize and to pay tribute to Army Aviation and to the professionalism, spirit, and motivation which we find among Army Aviators. I am proud to do this.

A year ago when I appeared before the Quad-A I mentioned to you that we were busily engaged in examining the career program for Army Aviators. We have finished that evaluation and have made the decisions.

We - and I, personally, - have spent many hours in this evaluation trying to balance all of the factors that go into the equation hoping that within the powers of judgment given to individuals that we can make the right decision.

I have great faith in the future of the Army Aviation Program, and I have great faith in those Army Aviators we have today and will have in the future.

I believe that as we tried to balance all of the factors that go into that equation that we have done so to the best of our ability and, especially, in regard to two factors:

First, to satisfy the needs of the Army, and second, to provide a viable career progression for young officers who choose to become aviators.

There is continuous work to be done in providing for ourselves the resources necessary if the whole aviation program is to be a viable program and if, in fact, we are going to provide the resources that are so necessary for Army Aviation to truly be a part of the combined arms team which it must be.

What am I referring to? . . . The continual hand-wrestling for funds, for resources, for spaces, for the opportunity to train; the necessity to bring forth in the 1981 budget the Advanced Attack Helicopter — all those kinds of things.

This will be my last opportunity as Chief to present this award and to appear before the Quad-A, but I have every confidence — and I am very optimistic — that the efforts, the optimism, and the enthusiasm at the Dept. of the Army level will go undiminished when I depart, and the support that is so necessary to the Army Aviation Program will be there, and will be there in full force.

Now those of you who have received awards tonight have undergone a fairly rigorous — for want of a better word — competition but it's competition against standards of excellence. By your performance — which has been recognized here tonight — you have set higher standards than just par, and standards towards which others may aspire in the future.

Many go unnamed

I would suspect that there's no group more likely to understand that individual or collective achievement can only come from the support of many, and some of you winners tonight have alluded to that fact, because it's more than just the aviator . . . it's the crewchief, the ground crews, the weather section, the safety engineers, and as you go back further the logisticians and the design technicians who all are part of total accomplishment.

So, many go unnamed tonight who are, in fact, being honored on this occasion.

An address by General Bernard W. Rogers, Chief of Staff, U.S. Army, at the 1979 AAAA Awards Banquet, in Atlanta, Ga., Saturday, April 21, 1979

What I am talking about in a simple word is teamwork, and when one has an organization or a unit, such as the 17th Combat Aviation Group in Eighth Army in Korea, he sees that teamwork highly visible.

You have before you in your dinner programs the citation that goes with this award to the 17th and you find in there such statistics as "almost 150 aircraft - 45,000 hours logged - 17 months without an accident."

And this was in an environment that was harsh and unforgiving and at the end of a long supply line where it's difficult at times to get repair parts and, therefore, operational readiness if not enhanced.

A little bit of spice

Also, oftentimes, it meant flying very close to that demilitarized zone which adds a little bit of spice to every aviator's fare. But through it all the professionals in this organization had the highest operational readiness rate of any Army unit anywhere in the world.

Now teamwork just doesn't happen. Teamwork comes from leadership . . . the man at the top who puts it all together, who inspires, who motivates, who guides, who directs, who challenges those who are with him and that's why it is such a pleasure for me tonight to ask the commander of the 17th Combat Aviation Group, Colonel George Newton, to come forward, the man who bears the responsibility for the outstanding performance of this organization which is being recognized tonight.

Alongside him in Korea was Command Sergeant Major Albert P. Liwanag who could not be here tonight.

Now George Newton, who has commanded this outstanding unit for the past two years, is here to try to carry home this huge award which his unit so rightly deserves. Colonel Newton, will you come forward, please?

Colonel Newton, it is a great honor for me to present to you the "Outstanding Aviation Unit Award for 1978." Congratulations to you and to your soldiers."

COL NEWTON: "General Rogers, General Williams, members and all friends of Quad-A. First, I'd like to thank the Association for this great honor in formally recognizing what we have known for a long time.

Next, I'd like to cite Maj. General Dick Prillaman who has had the guts to support us so that we could train to be combat-ready, and General John Vessey who has as great a vision and an understanding of Army Aviation as anyone I know . . . He supported the 17th 100%.

Most importantly, I'd like to thank all of the people of the 17th Combat Aviation Group, the people who earned this award.

And, finally, because I was told that I had only one minute up here, Brig. Gen. Charlie Canedy who, when I asked him as the DA's Army Aviation Officer to come visit us in Korea, responded, "Why? You guys are leaving, aren't you?"

To him, I'd like to say, 'Yes, Virginia, Army Aviation's alive and doing real well in the Land of the Morning Calm.' Thank you."

Aviation Soldier of

MR. President, Chief, aviators, and friends of aviation. I don't suppose I'll have to tell anyone who will have to fly home tomorrow that there's some importance in the people who support aviation activities.

We're very fortunate in the Army in that we have many thousands of extremely competent men and women who provide the services that permit our aviation force to do what it does for our total Army mission.

Also, the people who administer our units - who operate our flight sections - who supply and maintain - and, particularly, those who turn wrenches or who supervise the turning of wrenches - are very important people.

One among those whom our Association chose to honor tonight is a classic of the "soldier of America." Let me tell you a little about him.

BELOW: SFC James L. Fielder, of Ft. Bragg's 129th Aviation Co, acknowledges AAAA's '78 "Aviation Soldier of the Year Award." ◀

Born in Huntington, W. Va. In high school he worked in addition to going to school because his family needed the income. As he walked by the Post Office one day and saw Uncle Sam with his finger out saying, "I want you," he said, "Maybe he does, and maybe in the Army I can work, earn money, do something for my country, and get an education," and he's done all of those things.

He enlisted as an infantryman, and was assigned after training to Hawaii in January, 1965. In September of that year with our troop buildup in Vietnam, the call went out for infantrymen who would man machine guns on our troop-carrying aircraft and gunships in Vietnam.

Sergeant Fielder spent two years in Vietnam as a volunteer door gunner. Not content to just man the gun to defend the ship he began, as others did but more than others, said, "Hey, I can help out when we're not out flying and shooting."

So he began to do the tasks - probably by wiping the bubble. Anyway, he has not been to Mechanics' School at this time. He's an on-the-job maintenance supervisor now who learned the business because of his dedication and his belief that his buddies and his unit depended upon his skill.

Of course, he was assisted by supervisors, but (he learned his trade) largely on his own because he wanted to serve and wanted to contribute, he taught himself to be a super mechanic and

the Year

DAC of the Year Award

Mr. Hines accepts award

GENERAL Rogers, General Williams, General Shoemaker, and my many colleagues and friends. I consider it a real privilege and pleasure to be here to present this award.

One thing that General Williams left out was that the man who initiated the award in 1976 was probably one of the finest gentlemen I have ever known or to work with, LTG "Eivy" Johansen, the DCSLOG in the Army. He wrote a letter to the Quad-A then saying that in all of his years he had seen so many good Dept. of the Army Civilians, and that he honestly felt that AAAA should recognize them, and Quad-A agreed.

Tonight, it gives me great personal to present the award to the third recipient because here is what we logisticians give the highest accolade to and that is a "dirty hand logistician" — a fellow who is out in the field really doing the things that count in logistics . . . the wrench-turner, the guy who knows how the equipment works.

Above and beyond that, he is also associated with those things that make a total aircraft weapons system work, and I think we've all found out that a gunship, for example, that can fly and can shoot is not a very profitable business to be operating.

This award winner happens to be a missile maintenance technician. He works in Europe, and he obviously works very hard at his job because on March 31 General Blanchard presented him with the "USAREUR DAC Award of the Year," and it's only fitting that he now comes before us as the "AAAA Awardee of the Year."

The gentleman in question is Mr. Sherman C. Hines, Jr. To give you an idea of the calibre of the people we have in the field, he's a graduate of Alabama A&M with a B.S. with specialty in electronics. He's been in the Federal Service for some 13 years and for the past two years he's been stationed in Nurnburg, Germany, in support of the 2d ACR, and the AVIM unit, the 394th.

He has supported armament subsystems for the Cobra TOW and associated test equipment for these units.

Now this isn't an easy job. Being a field missile maintenance technician puts you in a very precarious position. You are sort of in the position of looking at the man you are supporting and trying to do the best you can for him but, of necessity, at times having to criticize. And anyone who

A Special Award

I CAN tell you that I agree that things are completely out of control here when you let two logisticians get up here (at the head table) on the same night, and especially an Italian one and tell him to talk for only four minutes and to keep his hands at his sides.

I, too, am particularly proud to congratulate the "DAC of the Year," Mr. Hines, because he, too, is part of DARCOM . . . It is a real personal and professional honor for me to take part in this ceremony tonight in honor of Corpus Christi Army Depot.

"Personal" because I can remember that in 1960 as an action officer in DCSLOG participating in the creation of what was then ARADMAC in the first design of the facility down at Corpus Christi.

Then, as the Director of Maintenance in DARCOM (then AMC many years ago)

playing a major role in working with Corpus and watching it perform, both in support of Vietnam and in the many, many other fine things that this depot does.

It's easy to forget if you fly, and as you get with the sexier parts of the Army and aviation, just what this depot does. But without it in Vietnam and during the period of Vietnam we could not have survived.

There's no question about it! . . . The closed loop to this depot in support of that war was immense. No question when you look at the statistics . . . 7,000 Birds repaired; 50,000 engines; 600,000 components . . . these are statistics in your dinner program and they are impressive.

But much more important is the technology that is there, and the things that they are doing in this very period as we lose people and as we compress our work force. As we watch the productivity of this particular depot in the realm of the 69 facilities within DARCOM, we find that this one stands at the top and that's an honest and a true observation.

There is no question that the productivity of this particular facility of DARCOM is the best in our system. We measure and have audited a $15 million productivity increase in this depot in the last two years as a statistics.

The statistics are just that. They don't tell you the real heart of the organization filters off into something called the XM-1.

Official Publication of the "Society for the Preservation of Old Friends"

1979 SPOOF ROSTER

c/o Army Aviation Magazine, 1 Crestwood Road, Westport, CT 06880

THE "WHAT"

■ ■ The annual "SPOOF Roster" is a complimentary listing of certain professional-personal information on AAAA's retired military members. Any roster title that implies grey heads, or a hesitant step, or gnarled hands would disturb our senior readers — Who likes to be called a "Retread"? — so the SPOOF acronym was chosen.

THE "WHO"

■ ■ Each AAAA member who has indicated he or she is in a military retired status, and who is carried on the Association rolls in this manner, is provided with an "update form" each January.

THE "WHY"

■ ■ Many of our retired military readers, in not moving about from place to place in a retirement situation, cannot periodically place their corresponding addresses in the magazine's "PCS" columns which only report changes. Hence, they lose contact with many of their old friends with whom they still wish to communicate. Some form of annual roster seemed desirable; the SPOOF was the result.

THE "WHEN"

■ ■ The long-term plan is to publish a SPOOF Roster as an insert in each May issue of Army Aviation.

THE FLIGHT LINE AT POST FIELD,
FT. SILL, OKLAHOMA - JUNE 1942

LEADERS - Colonel (later Brig. Gen.) William W. Ford, left, and Lt. Col. Gordon J. Wolf, served as the first Director and the first Executive Officer of the Field Artillery School's 1942 Department of Air Training.

WATCH ME! - Captain Robert M. Leich, kneeling, the DAT's first Maintenance Officer, shows 1LT Lloyd M. Bornstein, left, and Marion M. "Jake" Fortner, where the Cub's exhaust pipes let the "65 horses snort."

MY TURN! - The official photographer (and unofficial chronicler) of the 1942 "Birdmen" was Lieutenant (later LTC) Henry S. Wann, a former Piper Aircraft Company pilot, who served as the unit's resident pro.

NO CONTEST! - Even in 1942, aviators argued about who was "The Best!" Most agreed Lt. Del Bristol, left, was the sharpest pilot of the group, but ALL agreed Stanford graduate Wilson was the "best looking"

HOW MANY DO YOU RECOGNIZE!—The April '79 gathering of AAAA's "Cub Club" poses in front of Singer Link's fabulous "Blue Box." In the '42 simulator? Who else but No. 1, Bob Williams!

As we watch the tankers pick up a turbine engine engine we look for our expertise in DARCOM, and we find it at Corpus Christi Army Depot because that's where they fix turbine engines. We are using the depot and we will continue to use it as we move in that area.

We put a high value bearing repair facility into Corpus Christi Army Depot, and it's now universally used across DARCOM (SPECIAL/Continued on Page 48)

"The fondest thoughts . . ."

Comments from a letter by BG Melvin D. Losey, Ret., the first commander of CCAD, as expressed by Colonel Charles F. Drenz at the April 21, 1979 AAAA Awards Dinner honoring the Corpus Christi Army Depot:

"As the commander of the original ARAD-MAC team, I have the fondest thoughts of its struggling days, particularly the dedication of our work force, the unending cooperation of the people of Corpus Christi, the outstanding assistance given by the Corpus Christi Naval Air Station personnel, and the superb backing of our Army superiors.

"Finally, among the many things, the greatest had to be the successful prototyping of our first airframe and our first aircraft engine."

GENERAL Rogers, General Williams, distinguished guests, friends of Army Aviation.

I'm certain you realize that every recipient of an award tonight will be people and units who have contributed extraordinarily to Army Aviation.

But Reserve Component units have a very special talent because they are the people who back those who might "have to go tomorrow."

In the Total Force area, General Rogers, the Reserve Components provide 37% of all of the Army's aviation assets, and I know you are aware of it. In General Shoemaker's case, they provide 55% and, therefore, they must be professionals — qualified people who can do the job that must be done.

The 49th Transportation Company is known as the "Delta Schooners," getting this name because of their linkage with Stockton, Calif., dating back to the deep water port and seafaring days.

Since 1971 they've had the CH-47 "Hooks" and today that unit flies the very first and the very last CH-47A that exist in the Army.

I think it's unique that a Reserve Component unit such as this should have 95% of its pilots with Vietnam experience. Their average pilot time is 2,500 hours with a 750-hour average in the CH-47, and an average of 800 hours of combat flying. One pilot has logged 2,000+ hours in the Chinook.

This is not the first honor that this unit has had — they were the first Reserve Component unit to receive the Boeing 10,000 Hour CH-47 Award. They were the first unit to be reorganized with 24-aircraft configuration, and they have consistently received DA and Sixth Army safety awards.

Despite the competition of their civilian jobs and the roles which they play in their communities, they have consistently participated in BRAVE SHIELD and BOLD EAGLE Exercises, and they have been with the Naval Reserve for exercises five times in the last five years.

Throughout it all, they have had consistent training missions with the California National Guard and also the 7th Division.

But they have not only concentrated on their wartime role, if it should come to them, but they have also fulfilled in a most admirable way the role that Reserve Component units play in peacetime to the communities in which they live and serve.

They were outstanding participants in the evacuation of forest fire victims in 1977, and countless citizens of the State of California are alive today because of their activities during the floods of 1978. We just don't know how many search and rescue missions in which they participated.

I'd be remiss tonight if I didn't mention the contributions of the families of the men of these units — not just in California, but throughout the United States in the Reserve Components, because their support of the men and women who serve in the Reserve Components is a very vital part of the service of the latter.

I had the very special personal privilege in September of seeing this unit off to REFORGER 78. They completed their tasks in Germany in a most professional manner, and the accolades they received and the words that I've received concerning their participation there has been of the most admirable sort.

So, this evening, we in AAAA can take great pleasure in recognizing the 49th Transportation Company. . . At this time I'd like to ask Major Lawrence Faller, the Company Commander, and Staff Sergeant Michael L. Wilburn, as the Acting First Sergeant, to step forward.

On behalf of the AAAA, I present the "Outstanding Reserve Component Aviation Unit of the Year Award for 1978" to the 49th Transportation Company of the California Army National Guard.

Army Aviator of the Year

GENERAL Rogers, General Williams, friends. Tonight, necessarily we are all using a lot of superlatives and I think because of that I find myself a little at a loss.

But it's been a distinct pleasure for me during this meeting to become acquainted with Chief Warrant Officer "Mike" Farmer, the "Aviator of the Year."

Of course, you have his citation in your dinner program, and I feel that what I owe to you is my personal observation of CWO Farmer, and I can do that in a very few words . . . "Mike" Farmer is a professional — he's dedicated; he's committed; and he assures me that he will spend his entire career in the United States Army.

He's an outstanding aviator, a Cobra pilot. Incidentally, I'm assured also that his wife says that she's going to spend her career in the Army!

And Mr. Farmer has his own rooting section here with him tonight, and I'd like to ask Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Farmer, of Tulsa, Okla., Mike's parents; his wife, Sharon Ann, whom you met at our head table at today's luncheon; and Mrs. R.E. Sullivan, of Tulsa, his mother-in-law, to stand.

I just want to assure you that AAAA, as it has done consistently over the years, has selected really and truly the "Outstanding Aviator," and it is a distinct pleasure and honor for me, on behalf of Quad-A, to present this 1978 "Army Aviator of the Year Award" to Chief Warrant Officer Michael B. Farmer.

became a platoon sergeant, came back to the States, served at Ft. Bragg, went back to Vietnam again, served a full year as a maintenance supervisor, has been back for the past eight years at Ft. Bragg, and is now the maintenance supervisor of the 129th Aviation Company, 269th Aviation Battalion at Ft. Bragg.

Let me read for you what his commander said about him when he nominated Sergeant First Class Fielder for this award:

"There will be those whose records will be brighter on paper, but none whose record will be as bright in the minds of the people who have known him and who have worked with him. There will always be those whose deeds have been noticed by more important people but none whose deeds were more needed and appreciated by the many, less important people in the Army.

"There'll be those whose own sense of importance and high visibility overshadow his, but there can be none whose day-to-day hard work, sacrifice, productivity, and excellence will overshadow this man in the eyes of all who know and see him."

Having had dinner with him tonight and having spoken with him earlier, I can assure you our Association has never

General (MG) "Lou" Rockmeller, you can be justly proud of this fellow. He belongs to the Missile Readiness Command, which General Rockmeller is the Commander. And I've already said how important these people are, and believe me, mission readiness of the Cobra in Europe has been great, and it's been great because of people like Mr. Hines. And with that, I would like to ask Mr. Hines to come forward, and believe me this to me is a great pleasure.

McClellan Aviation

I TAKE great honor in presenting this award tonight because this award is named for the son of Senator John L. McClellan, the great former senior Senator of the great State of Arkansas and, needless to say, sir, I am from that state and very proud of it.

And now to the young man and his wife whom we are honoring . . . As Unit Safety Officer of the 207th Aviation Company, Chief Warrant Officer Frankie C. Wilson implemented a highly effective accident-prevention program encompassing all aspects of aviation operations.

The statistical evidence of his success in this endeavor more than justified his selection as AAAA's "USAREUR Aviation Safety Person of the Year" and qualifies him as the 1978 "James H. McClellan Aviation Safety Award" winner.

CWO Wilson distinguished himself by his selfless involvement in unit training, safety, and accident-free flying hours supporting CINCUSAREUR and Headquarters, Seventh Army.

On his arrival at the 207th he initiated an Aviation Life Support Equipment Program where before there had been none. He was instrumental in the rebuild of flight helmets to comply with current Modification Work Orders doing most of the work himself.

Additionally, Mr. Wilson was responsible for the renovation and upgrading of the unit's POL storage area. He also supervised the modification of hangar doors preventing the possible loss or damage to aircraft costing over $1 million. Through his initiative other hazards in Europe have been solved.

In the young man's relationship with his superiors and subordinates, he corrects without offense, and teaches by example. By continually striving for excellence in performance he demands professionalism in every activity in which he is engaged.

Chief Warrant Officer Wilson is fully qualified to be the recipient of this most prestigious safety award and I would like his pretty wife, Fay, to please stand as he comes forward to accept this award.

The Question:

I'd like to ask a question of my dear friend, General Blanchard. I am very happy to hear the optimistic report about Europe, but I'd appreciate it, sir, if you'd give us your concept of military operations there with respect to Army Aviation . . . that is . . . how do you see it fitting into your battle plan and include in your answer, if you will, the question of Air Cavalry and its use.

The Answer

A RESPONSE BY GENERAL GEORGE S. BLANCHARD, CG, USAREUR

I WAS certain I'd get a chance, gentlemen, to get involved in answering that particular question. I thought that if you hadn't asked the question, General Kinnard, that (Gen.) Jack Tolson, or Jack Norton, or any one of the number of people here at Quad-A, would have asked it.

I THINK you are all aware of the problem we faced sometime ago. The problem was, "How do you kill the tanks and how do you service the targets?"

WHEN YOU ADD UP the capabilities of the infantry weapons, the artillery weapons, and the air defense and Air Force capabilities, and find what those amount to in making your best estimate, and consider what the potential enemy has published, and then you attempt to decide how to take care of those targets with the systems you have and ask yourself if can you handle it, then what comes about as a result of this analysis is that you find that you simply have to have additional capabilities if you are going to appropriately service the targets that are required.

IN THIS ANALYSIS we looked at the capability of Army Aviation in the development of the TOW Cobra, and it became very obvious that the attack helicopter was the essential additional weapon we had to have in order to maximize not only on its ability to shoot tanks, but its ability to move on other parts of the battlefield as well.

UNDERSTAND that you are looking not only at the main battle position, but you're also looking at the border itself as well rear area targets. So, our problem became one of "How do you maximize the capabilities of Army Aviation and the requirement that we do that with a system with the capability of the Cobra TOW."

LOOKING FORWARD into the future at other weapon systems you can also foresee a greatly increased capability as these weapons systems are developed.

IN SO DOING, you can visualize two or three very significant thrusts by an enemy (Put yourself in the position of Warsaw Pact). Looking at it from my position as a

The Answer!

NATO Commander of Central Army Group, you can see two — or possibly three — thrusts into the Central Army Group area in addition to a thrust in a normal kind of traditional great Northern German plain operation.

FIRST, you've got to locate that threat, the analysis of where that threat is. There is a function of aviation; it's a function of the Mohawk; it's a function of the RF4; it's a function of all the capabilities of the NATO system to determine from operational indications, electronic indications, and so on, as to where that threat is.

WE HAVE a fair capability to do

HOT ROD—A major milestone has been reached in the high speed test flight program of Sikorsky's Advancing Blade Concept (ABC) research helicopter with the aircraft attaining a 204 knot speed in a series of gradually accelerating test flights. Goal: 300 knots.

this in NATO, combining the systems of the various countries concerned into an intelligence capability to locate, but there is nothing like the individual on the ground, the 1st of the 9th, the capability of the Air Cav.

SO REALLY, you are using the capability we presently have with the Scout and with the Cobra, to do a kind of a dual initial role on the border and in the covering force with the use of the aviation from the divisions and the aviation of the Cav to help determine where that thrust is and the magnitude of it.

Positioning of defenses

AS THE BATTLE proceeds from the covering force and, of course, our battle plan invisions winning the battle in the covering force area, if at all possible. But as that battle proceeds - and should the Warsaw Pact put enough force into it - there's bound to be some kind of movement into the main battle position, the covering force, then having had the opportunity also to provide time for the proper positioning of the main battle area defenses is an advantage.

OVER TIME and recognizing that the Soviets during World War II against the Germans were willing to sacrifice large numbers of troops in order to find weak points, or to find boundaries between national forces, and so on, you can see that if they are willing to sacrifice sufficiently, there could be penetrations of the main battle area.

TIME AND PLACE

This article is derived from tape recordings made during the professional presentations at the 1978 AAAA National Convention in Arlington, Va. ■

AS YOU SEE the development of the tactics, and you are aware of the fact that the publication of those tactics is in unclassified form in many Russian publications and they pretty well follow those in their training, you can see a penetration rapidly reinforced by Pact forces and you then see the second kind of requirement for Army Aviation.

YOU SEE in our mobile defense capability a requirement to move troops from the rear to the front, and you see a requirement for economy of force units and surveillance of that battlefield in order to determine the strength of that thrust and to provide the supplies and necessities from the rear, plus the need for the fixed wing compliment of this from the intelligence side, both Army Aviation and Air Force aviation.

THE ECONOMY of force — Who handles that? — because you pull battalions from other sides of the battlefield in order to pile them in front of the penetration. This becomes, then, an additional requirement for Army Aviation. We see this as a requirement that has to be met and from which Army Aviation is pretty well capable of doing it, if we have the proper mix of tank

The Answer!

WE SEE a requirement automatically for a Scout of the type described earlier. That's absolutely essential and I couldn't back up that requirement more than the Project Manager or various other members of the community who feel it is so essential.

YOU SEE a requirement for an attack helicopter that is modern and that does have the essential devices that in concert with air and in concert with the ground can provide the capability of taking care of the ZSU 23-4 with its radar in an Army/Air Force configuration of defeat of the radar and defeat of the equipment itself - this associated with the other air defense weapons provided by the umbrella concept of the Soviets.

THE SYMPOSIUM'S SEVEN!

The Monmouth Chapter—AAAA's 21-23 March highly successful 1979 Aviation Electronic Symposium was staffed by seven hardworking AAAA members. L-R are Chuck Jones, Len Donnelly, Harry Smith, COL Darwin A. Petersen (Chapter President), Vince O'Donnell, Al Smith and George Hogellin. Residue operating funds from the two-day gathering will be used to underwrite AAAA scholarships.

YOU SEE a requirement as well for other types of Army Aviation support, whether we are talking supply, whether we're talking rear area, whether we're talking reinforcement.

I SEE, for example - and we practice this in Europe - the movement of infantry mechanized forces without their tracks from point A to point B, the tracks following up. This means, of course, a Huey-type aircraft - the air assault kind of capabilities.

I EXPLAINED, in my prepared remarks, the necessity of moving the German airborne division, which is a "tank-killer" kind of force with the anti-tank weapon, in to reinforce the battlefield to strengthen the anti-tank defenses.

TO ME it is a totally integrated effort. I must, if we are going to keep up with the advances of the Soviets, have the full support of the R & D community in the fielding of capable weapons of the sophisticated variety.

WE TALK of the eventual with new vehicles and new equipment, reconnaissance and cavalry kind of concept that we talk about as well as the tank-killer re-supply, rear area kind of activity. I see an integrated concept on Army Aviation support for any battlefield, and I am particularly interested, of course, in the European battlefield. I am very much encouraged by what I hear from the people here about that understanding.

THERE IS one other point that has to be added and I mentioned it in my talk. We must be able to inter-operate with our Allies, and be able to use those attack helicopter companies with the Canadians in SUNTAG, with the Germans in SUNTAG, and as USAREUR's interests move north with the establishment now of a brigade in the Northern Army Group area, in the area near Bremen, and very possibly additional ones in the future, at least from the standpoint of planned support of Reserve Units for the Northern Army Group area, I see the interoperability concept increasing, the RSI concept, the kinds of things Dr. LeBerge described to Quad-A yesterday that are extremely important.

Test Unit Selected

The 229th Attack Helicopter Battalion, 101st Abn Div, has been chosen as the test unit to test the new field manual (FM 17-40) governing gunnery training for Cobra helicopters. The purpose of the test is to validate certain requirements specified in the manual, such as ammunition allocations, exposure times, and scoring criteria. If the criteria in the FM prove correct, it will standardize the gunnery training for all attack helicopter pilots in the Army. ◀

I'LL BE glad to talk in more detail with you throughout this meeting as to how I envision the use of Army Aviation in the total battle plan. Thank you, gentlemen.
