Top-ranked for reliability!

AI-903

From J.E.T., of course.

Here's a self-contained gyro horizon unequalled for performance and reliability! It's proved itself time and again in the past decade. And now more than 2,500 of these sophisticated 3-inch instruments have been delivered. They're performing with high dependability on a variety of fixed and rotary wing aircraft, including:

- Bell AH-1S • Cessna T-37 • Cessna A-37
- Boeing B-52 • Boeing E3-A • Boeing YC-14
- Hawker Siddeley AV-8A • Hughes AH-64

J.E.T. is the consistent leader in military lighting, with absolute uniformity of colors and brightness. The AI-903 meets MIL-I-83336 specifications. Qualified and in production.

AGUSTA

AGUSTA 101 G first flew in October 1964. It remains as one of the largest helicopters completely developed in Europe. Gross take-off weight in excess of 28,000 pounds. Carries 35 passengers. This five-bladed helicopter was powered by three Bristol-Siddeley Gnome 1400 h.p. engines.

AGUSTA 105 B first flew in April 1965. Four-seat utility helicopter powered by the TAA-230. Maximum gross take-off weight of 2,750 pounds. Designed for a wide range of civil and military duties including reconnaissance, liaison, light transport and training.

AGUSTA 106 first flew in November 1965. Single-seat helicopter for the ASW mission. Powered by a TAA-230 engine. Two-bladed with 3,000 pound gross take-off weight. Successfully deployed in the Italian Navy.

AGUSTA 109 first flew in August 1971. High performance, four-bladed advanced utility helicopter powered by two Allison 250-C20B engines. This eight-place helicopter is in full production for both military and civil applications in over ten countries. First helicopter fully FAA certified for single pilot IFR flight.

AGUSTA 109/TOW adapted for military application with U.S. Army/Hughes Aircraft M-65 TOW Missile System. Extraordinary stability as a firing platform. Achieved 100% target hit record throughout extensive firing trials. Functions as superb, fast utility helicopter when not used in anti-tank capacity.

ONE OF THE ARMY'S GREATEST SUCCESS STORIES

DA's Army Aviation Officer, BG Richard D. Kenyon, indicates the AWO Program provides the Army with "an extremely effective solution to a problem that has historically plagued all of the Services."

THE Army Aviation Warrant Officer Program continues to be one of the Army's greatest success stories of the past three decades.

Since this month's issue of Army Aviation is dedicated to our Warrant Officers, I want to take this opportunity to re-emphasize the importance of the Warrant Officer in today's and tomorrow's Army Aviation Program.

The Aviation Warrant Officer Program is truly the backbone of Army Aviation, one that is unique within the Services, and it's frequently used by the Office of the Secretary of Defense as an example of sound personnel management for other Service consideration.

The Army Aviation warrant has served with true distinction, meeting and exceeding all expectations.

The AWO Program has provided the Army with an extremely effective solution to a problem that has historically plagued all Services, i.e., providing experienced aviators to cockpits while permitting appropriate aviation development of commissioned officers while meeting their command and staff requirements.

The Army Aviation warrant officer is filling this vital role in the Army Aviation Program.

Now, to prove how valuable the Army considers the warrant to be, I must highlight some important accomplishments.

The 31 May 1979 Promotion List

to W3 and W4 reflected the following selection rates for those considered for the first time together with the secondary zone:

W3 1st Time Considered Rate

Army 84.6%
 Army Aviation Warrants 92.6%

W3 Secondary Zone Rate

Army 5.3%
 Army Aviation Warrants 5.3%

W4 1st Time Considered Rate

Army 78.9%
 Army Aviation Warrants 93.2%

W4 Secondary Zone Rate

Army 4.9%
 Army Aviation Warrants 7.6%

Information from MILPERCEN indicates that the May 1979 lists (W3 and W4) are forecast to be exhausted by early summer 1980 and a new Selection Board will have met and forwarded recommended lists by 9 May 1980.

MILPERCEN emphasizes that those in the primary zone may communicate with the Selection Board and forward any data that the individual considers important and worthy of Board consideration.

Additionally, MILPERCEN recommends that each Warrant Officer being considered for the first time for promotion to W3/W4 review his/her ORB and make certain that it reflects accurate and current data.

I want to emphasize the importance of continuing education. The Degree Completion Program for Warrant Officers is an active interest area; during FY 79, there were 54 non-aviators selected for the program and 109 aviators were selected.

BRIG. GEN.
 RICHARD D.
 KENYON,
 Deputy Director of Requirements,
 ODCSOPS, and
 Army Aviation
 Officer, DA

Again, aviation warrants are doing extremely well. I encourage each Warrant Officer aviator to pursue additional educational opportunities and take advantage of that which is available. The product is a better qualified Warrant Officer who will be of more value to himself/herself, one's family, and the Army Aviation Program.

The Army Warrant Officer inventory at the end of FY 79 was 13,000. During FY 80, this inventory will increase to 13,400 with 5,300 (approximately 40%) being Army Aviation Warrant Officers. Increases in FY 81 and beyond are programmed in order to implement Aviation Requirements for the Combat Structure of the Army (ARCSA III) approved force structure.

In support of the increase in Army Aviation Warrant Officers, the FY 79 output of 450 Warrant Officers at Fort Rucker will increase to 632 in FY 80 and 808 in FY 81.

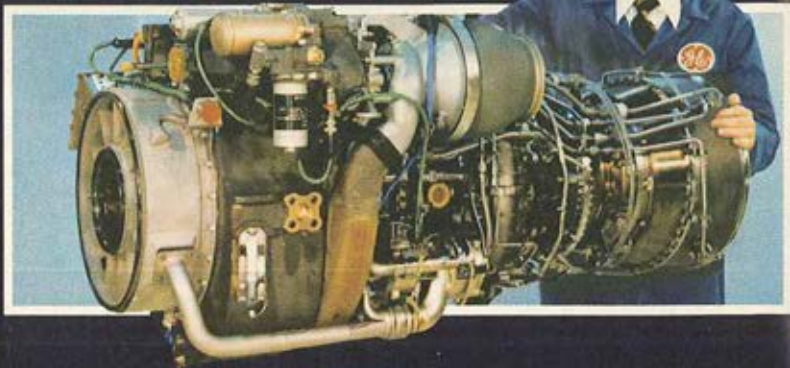

MILPERCEN's 57 MOS's for Warrant Officers include seven for Army Aviation warrants; MILPERCEN currently has five assignment officers assigned to manage these warrant aviator assets. Should you require additional information, contact MILPERCEN at Autovon 221-7831/7832.

Army's AAH- Fires Autonomous Hellfire Launch

Ahead of TIME Technology

In late October 1979, the Hughes Helicopters YAH-64 conducted the first autonomous HELLFIRE launch. The TADS laser guided the HELLFIRE missile successfully. This major step forward validates total AAH weapons systems capability and establishes compatibility of integrated YAH-64 systems.

Utilizing Target Acquisition and Designation Systems (TADS), from competing Northrop and Martin Marietta, the AAH demonstrates an ability to destroy enemy tanks at extended standoff ranges.

SUCCESS STORY

A new program has been recently approved which will allow retention of selected Warrant Officers who serve in shortage MOS's (aviation is included) past 30 years of service. The program will be managed using a selection board process with the first board scheduled to convene during FY 80. Letters of invitation will be forwarded to those selected to remain on active duty past 30 years of service. More information on this program will be forthcoming in the near future.

An in-depth evaluation

Now to our ongoing efforts in review of the 67 Career Management Field (CMF) and related issues for enlisted career management. As has been pointed out in previous articles, HQDA is conducting a study which will result in an in-depth evaluation of the current force structure for CMF67; the desired result will be the development of innovative management techniques to resolve problem areas identified in CMF67. Some areas being addressed include:

- Development of a grade-feasible structure for TOE/TDA aviation units.
- Determination of the validity of Standards of Grade Authorizations (SGA) application for CMF67.
- A review of the overall maintenance personnel structure.

The study, under the direction of COL Pete Vines, should be completed in December 1979 with findings, conclusions, and recommendations provided to HQDA in January 1980. Implementation of the study's recommendations will be reviewed by a HQDA General Officer Steering Group.

The OPMS 15 Study Group, under the leadership of COL Ben Pergerson, is now well along on its analysis of issues associated with implementation of CSA's decisions on commissioned aviator career management. Those on the study include LTC Ed Lethcoe, LTC Dave Carothers, and Major Bud Leonard as full time members. Also assisting are representatives from the Army Staff, MILPERCEN, and Major Commands (TRADOC, FORSCOM, and DARCOM).

A significant impact

The objective is to complete the analysis in time to include issues and actions in POM 82-86. The Feb 1980 Digest will have an in-depth analysis of the study group initial findings. Completion of the study is planned for 2nd Quarter FY 80. Implementation of the CSA's decisions on commissioned aviator career management will have a significant impact on the careers of our commissioned aviators.

Rest assured that I will closely track the developments of this most important effort. The commissioned aviator, like the Warrant Officer aviator, has earned the right and deserves a meaningful career with appropriate career pattern development and recognition.

It was my pleasure to visit the Applied Technology Laboratory, known to most as ATL, on 30 October 1979. In addition to reviewing their facilities, I had the honor of attending their Annual Awards Banquet. I am sure that ATL will expound on their three "in-house" awards in the January 1980 issue since that issue is devoted to R&D.

My appreciation to COL Emmett Knight and the members of ATL for their outstanding contributions to Army Aviation and their technology development efforts. ATL has accepted the challenge to maintain a balanced approach to R&D by insuring that research is responsive to the user's needs.

Aviation unit deployments

ARCSA III will result in the PCS deployment of the 116th Aviation Company (CSAS) and 179th Medium Lift Helicopter Company to Europe during 4th Quarter FY 80. The 12th Aviation Group has already deployed from Fort Bragg and is now the Aviation Group for V Corps.

The 11th Aviation Group, previously a USAREUR unit directly under HQ USAREUR, is now the Aviation Group for VII Corps. The 116th is scheduled to become the Combat Support Aviation Company of the 501st Combat Aviation Battalion in the 1st Armored Division. The 179th will bring us up to four Medium Lift Helicopter companies in Europe against an ARCSA III approved objective of six.

The 121st Aviation Company (CSAC), 132nd Medium Lift Helicopter Company, and the 243rd Medium Lift Helicopter Company are all on schedule for deployment to Europe under the ARCSA III plan. Approved increases in the attack helicopter structure in Europe are also on schedule.

Next coming down the road will be ARCSA IV which is scheduled to begin in FY 80. The current plan is to capture any pertinent decisions on TRADOC proposals for Division 86, accomplish a HELILOG II (or update), and roll all this into ARCSA IV.

HQDA must then review the recommendations and, as was done under ARCSA III, develop a plan to implement the proposals within the constraints of people, equipment, and $.

Turbulence within the structure must be minimized, but we must make changes appropriate to the needs of the Army. Rest assured that ARCSA IV will receive close review by all concerned to include the MACOMS, Army Staff, OSD, and the Congress.

I take this opportunity to congratulate aviators who were recently selected for promotion. The following Colonels have recently been selected for promotion to Brigadier General: Doc Bahnsen, Chuck Drenz, Jim Hesson, Claude Ivey, Bo Maddox, and C.E. Teeter.

A list of those LTC's who have been selected for promotion to Colonel appears in a box on Page 50 of this issue.

Optimistic and confident!

My assessment of the Army Aviation Program, after being your HQDA Army Aviation Officer for some four plus months, is that the program is alive and extremely well. I am optimistic and confident that the overall Army Aviation Program will continue to advance and fulfill an invaluable service as a member of the Total Army's combined arms team.

Much remains to be done, but I am satisfied that we, as a corporate body, will meet and solve those challenges.

The Chinook D...more for less.

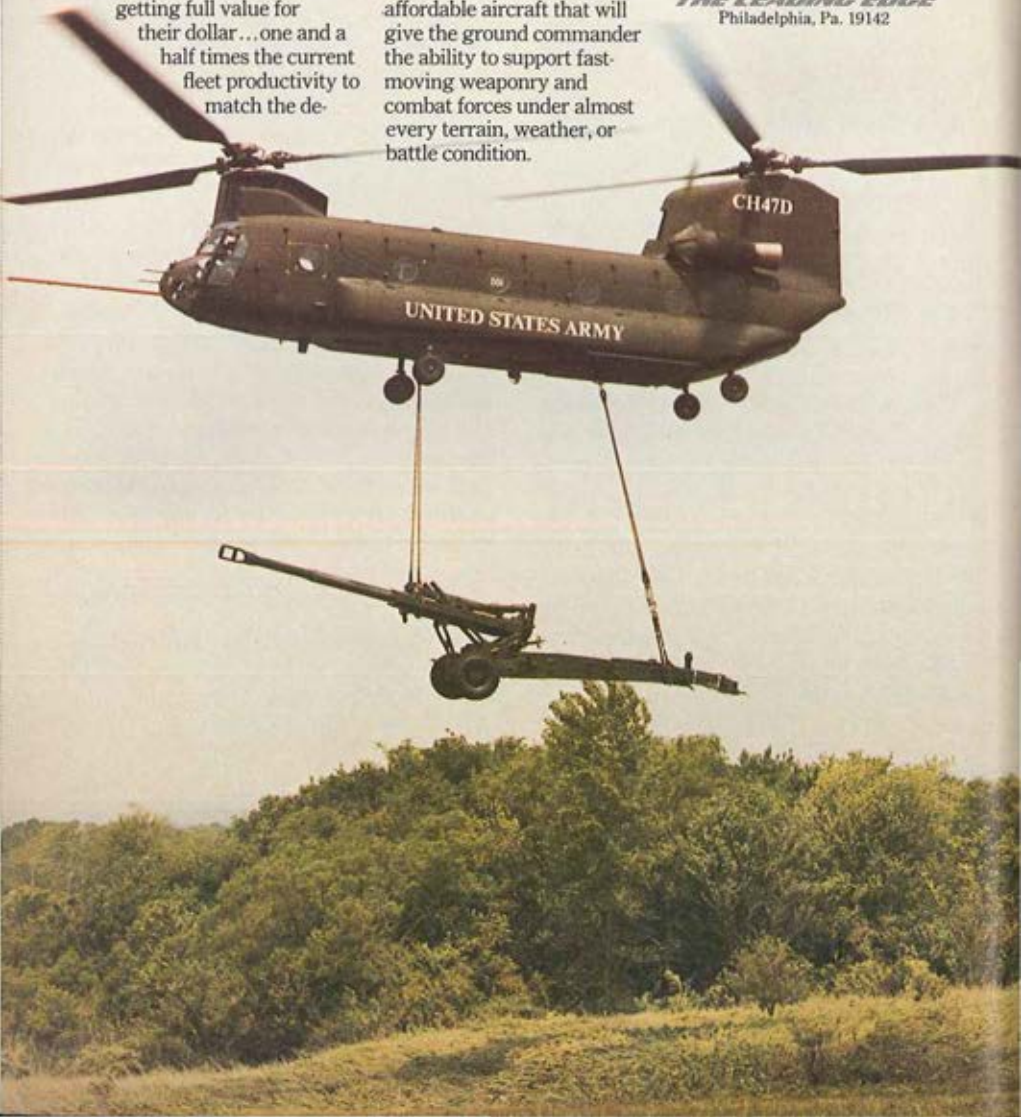

The U.S. Army CH-47D prototypes are flying now, completed ahead of schedule and on budget. When the U.S. Army's Chinook helicopter fleet is fully converted to the new Delta Model, the Defense Department and the American taxpayer will be getting full value for their dollar...one and a half times the current fleet productivity to match the demands of modern combat forces and a 21 percent reduction in operating costs to meet stringent budget limitations.

The mobility, vital for effective tactical and logistic response will be provided by a helicopter of unmatched flexibility and reliability. An affordable aircraft that will give the ground commander the ability to support fast-moving weaponry and combat forces under almost every terrain, weather, or battle condition.

The Chinook Delta Model—the product of a great history of performance, proven advanced technology and positive teamwork. And that, more or less, is what it's all about.

BACKGROUND

This page is the first of a regular series of "AAAA Information" pages we plan to run in subsequent issues. Our purpose is to keep you informed on major Association policies and actions. Your comments on this action are solicited and we ask that you direct them to our National Office.

USAREUR REGION CONVENTION

The March 26-29, 1980 professional programming at Garmisch, Germany includes a keynote address by LTG Sidney B. Berry; DA, USAREUR, MILPERCEN, and USAAVNC presentations; Martin-Marietta, Northrop Corp., Aerospatiale, Augusta, MBB, and Westland industry briefings; and Awards Presentations by GEN Frederick J. Kroesen, CG, USAREUR. BG Charles E. Canedy, Regional President, heads the AAAA programming.

HALL OF FAME

The Board of Trustees of the Army Aviation Hall of Fame will meet in Washington, D.C., January 18, to select inductees for the 1980-1982 period. The Board is chaired by GEN Hamilton H. Howze, and includes LTG Harry W.O. Kinnard; MG's James H. Merryman and James C. Smith; BG's Carl H. McNair, O. Glenn Goodhand, and Richard D. Kenyon; CW4 Leland C. Komich; and CSM Lawrence E. Kennedy. Induction ceremonies will be held at the AAAA National Convention in Atlanta, Ga., April 11.

AVIATION MUSEUM RECOGNITION

AAAA's National Executive Board has approved the purchase of separate plaques recognizing the winners of the DAC of the Year and James H. McClellan Aviation Safety Awards. In an earlier action the Board had approved the sponsorship of plaques honoring the winners of the 1959-79 Army Aviator of the Year and Aviation Soldier of the Year awards.

I'd encourage all members to participate in the Jan-Dec, 1980 AAAA National Sweepstakes, an enrollment contest detailed elsewhere in this issue. We need and seek your help.

How do you develop more effective defense systems?

You start with vision.

Visions Simulator

For three decades we have placed great emphasis on a continuous program of analysis and study to help us foresee the future course of world military strategy.

This vision for projecting military needs, and the development of technical resources to meet them, has significantly contributed to many of the country's first line defense systems.

In fact, a number of systems with vision of their own have grown out of this analytical approach. Paveway, an airborne laser designator, Pave Penny, an airborne laser tracker, and a Target Acquisition and Detection System known as TADS, for example, all required advanced electro-optics in order to search out, mark, and track targets day or night. Our Pilot's Night Vision System (PNVS) required new developments in forward-looking infrared technology.

When analyses also revealed a greater need for first-round accuracy, the military services called for weapons that could "see." Two such are Copperhead, a laser-guided artillery projectile, and Pershing II, a tactical missile that uses radar correlation, terminal guidance to point of impact.

To test systems with advanced technologies we've invested in some of the most sophisticated facilities in the industry. A unique and spectacular one is our multi-million dollar Simulation and Test Laboratory. Its electro-optical simulator includes a mammoth terrain model over which such systems can be "flown" by a pilot or missile.

Through vision, innovation and testing we've helped keep our country abreast of its defense needs. Without question, we're eminently qualified to help analyze and develop our country's future defense systems.

1980 AAAA SWEEPSTAKES

AIRCRAFT MODELS, TRIPS, MANY OTHER PRIZES!
HELP AAAA REACH ITS 1980 GOAL OF 10,000!

PRIZES!

The "starter" list of Sweepstakes' Prizes includes many hard-to-get models of the aircraft employed in Army Aviation, an expense-paid trip to AAAA's 1981 National Convention site, AA rings, 19" aluminum wings, an aviation "library", and other prizes to be announced in subsequent months. Help AAAA reach its Dec. 31, 1980 membership goal of 10,000 members by participating in the 1980 National Sweepstakes!

NINE CHANCES TO WIN!

Sign up ONE new AAAA member using the application form provided, and your coupon will be entered in NINE separate Sweepstakes' drawings . . . You'll be competing for prizes in six Bi-Monthly Drawings during the 1980 calendar year, the Mid-Year Sweepstakes' Drawing on July 15, and the Grand Sweepstakes' Drawing on January 15, 1981. That's eight drawings, and if you want to enter the "Top Gun Drawing" for AAAA's Top Recruiter, that's a NINTH opportunity to win!

YOUR ENROLLEES CAN WIN, TOO!

The new AAAA members you enroll may also win substantial prizes! Their coupons will be entered in a separate End-of-Sweepstakes' Drawing for new members only. It's easy to enter! Just complete one or more of the opposite page coupons, and have your new members complete the reverse side. Submit these and the new members' appropriate dues to AAAA in an envelope postmarked during CY 1980. Sweepstakes' winners need not be present at any of the eight drawings to win!

GENERAL RULES

No purchase is required. An AAAA member may submit as many entries as he wishes, and is not limited in the number of prizes he or she wins. All Federal, State, and Local Regulations apply, and an entry is void where prohibited by law. Sweepstakes' entry constitutes full approval to publish the names, addresses, and photos of winners without further compensation by AAAA.

For two-way protection as an Army Aviator under age 30, the new AAAA-endorsed LIFE/FLIGHT PAY PLAN provides you up to $17,640 in life insurance indemnities
AND

if grounded medically, up to $11,280 in direct flight pay reimbursement.

The cost for this unique life and flight pay coverage?
A low $2.75-$8.21 a month by allotment depending on on the monthly flight pay that you receive.

Here are details of the AAAA-Endorsed Flight Pay Insurance

HOW YOU BENEFIT IF GROUNDED

Basic Plan

Provides tax-free indemnity payments of 80% of your current flight pay - payable each month for up to 12 months - if you are grounded for illness, an ordinary accident, or a military aviation accident caused by combat action and pays up to 24 months if you are grounded for a military aviation accident not caused directly or indirectly by war or an act of war.

Added Benefit Plan

Doubles the standard 12 and 24 month indemnity payment periods - for only about 1/3 more than the cost of the basic coverage.

If you elect this ADDED BENEFIT plan, benefits are payable each month for up to 24 months if you are grounded for illness or ordinary accident or military aviation accident caused by combat action, and for up to 48 months for groundings caused by military aircraft accident not caused directly or indirectly by war or act of war.

This optional coverage, together with the plan's graduated premium scale, offers the maximum flight pay income protection for Army Aviation flight personnel during the years when financial obligations are greatest.

Combat Coverage

That is, all risk combat protection illness, wounds, aircraft accident, anything that is caused by a combat action with indemnities payable up to 24 months - IS AN EXCLUSIVE FEATURE OF AAAA-ENDORSED FLIGHT PAY INSURANCE that is not available under any program to members of the other services.

Indemnities are tax-free

Your monthly indemnity checks - in the amount of 80% of your flight pay, are TAX FREE under Sec. 1.104 (d) (3) of the 1954 Internal Revenue Code. This means that your income checks are roughly equivalent to the TAXABLE flight pay income you'd normally receive from the government.

Navigation via Navstar GPS moves a step closer with Collins avionics.

The U.S. Air Force has selected the Collins Government Avionics Division as one of two prime contractors for full-scale development of Navstar Global Positioning System user equipment.

When operational, GPS will provide worldwide three-dimensional navigation information with accuracy to within 30 feet. The Collins Government Avionics Division, Rockwell International, is already well established in GPS technology. Under contract to the Air Force Avionics Lab, we began work on a Generalized Development Model (GDM) of GPS user equipment in 1975. The GDM consistently demonstrated precision navigation performance in an intense jamming environment during the Phase I concept validation flight tests.

Under contract to the Space Division (SD) of the U.S. Air Force, we're developing GPS user equipment for seven types of host vehicles — bombers, fighters, submarines, carriers, helicopters, tanks and man-packs. And we're demonstrating a cost-effective design approach. Multilevel commonality is achieved by using modular receiver signal processors and flexible modular interfaces. These interfaces make it possible to economically adapt the system to the unique requirements of virtually any military application.

Truly cost-effective GPS user equipment is no surprise coming from the Collins Divisions. Especially when you look at our record in navigation and in ground, sea and airborne communications systems. Contact: Collins Government Avionics Division, Rockwell International, Cedar Rapids, Iowa 52406. Phone 319/395-4412.

SPEAKING OUT

Is commissioned officer specialty 15A00 a competitive field of endeavor?

IN response to the open letter of CPT James R. Anderson (Army Aviation, Nov 1979), I'd like to offer these observations on the subject of aviator competitiveness.

As a recently retired careerist who has sat on numerous Army promotion boards (officer and senior enlisted), I could expand these observations so that all specialty areas would be included, but I'll keep them to aviators specifically.

FIRST of all, as long as we have traditional branches of arms and services within the Army, OPMS will work only partially. EPMS does a better job of selection for promotion in that there is more of a conscious effort to insure that the Army gets enough rankers in EACH specialty.

SECOND, there's no real basis to compare aviation selection rates as compared to those of the traditional branches. OPMS notwithstanding, selections are made, by the accumulated and averaged votes of many officers on several panels.

The problem boils down to the observable that each specialty is not equally endowed with leadership potential that has been demonstrated. The same can be said for year groups. All year groups within a given specialty are not observable as being equally talented with leadership ability.

THIRD, aviation in the Army has always had a greater share of problems with selections than other specialties. They say they don't get enough promotions by comparison, and have gotten too many RIF's! This needs to be explored in depth, and some bullets need to be bitten in the process.

While generalities are often dangerous, my promotion board experience has shown me in very observable terms that aviator files as a group contain a significantly higher number of reports indicating questionable leadership being demonstrated as junior officers prior to becoming flyers.

This again will vary by year group and grade. This situation reflects that there are a significant number of aviation specialists who tried being rifle and company platoon leaders and who didn't do so well.

Aviation was, in effect, an alternate career. While they may become outstanding aviators and even super combat flyers, they carry with them a leadership stigma that is highly indelible.

Selecting the minority

FOURTH, until we get into the process of selecting for higher ranks where the overall percentage to be promoted is less than 50%, the promotion board is, in reality, selecting the minority that they can justifiably NOT promote.

In an era where the max OER is the mode, these early aspersions on an individual's leadership potential are very significant. When there is a selection target of 80% or better, the task of the board evolves into finding the 20% that they - in good conscience - not promote.

The slightest reflection of adverse leadership is a good reason for non-selection. What many forget is that promotion is NOT given as a reward for past performance, but as a bet on future leadership/management potential.

FIFTH — it's difficult for the officer aviator to offset an early report adverse to his leadership. It normally requires top notch (Max!) performance as an aviation unit commander. The number of those jobs is a relevant factor again to the resultant selection rate. If you get an aviation job and don't come out on top, the stigma becomes deeper and more significant.

THE SOLUTION? Someday we have to face up to reality and eliminate "branches" as we know them in the Army. When that day comes, OPMS can work more fully. The Army is so diverse with specialties and sub-specialties that leadership and management potential/ability are the ONLY yardsticks that offer the slightest common denominator among them.

Promotion by quotas

Perhaps once OPMS really works, then we may have a mature process whereby promotions are indeed based on quotas that satisfy the Army's needs in each specialty for the forthcoming year in a given grade. To me, that would be a real "plus" and perhaps even have the secondary effect of reducing or eliminating inflated OER's.

Potential would be judged on indicated performance. We would no longer have to write up anyone as a combat rifle platoon leader or company commander.

I'm sure the Army would benefit by having a greater number of true professionals in each field and reduce the numbers in those who make it on "image" in the file. ◀

Another Aviator Replies to Captain Anderson's Letter

I read the November, 1979 open letter of Captain James R. Anderson in the "Speaking Out" column of that issue. He indeed asks a pertinent question, one deserving of an answer.

This past summer at the War College, I asked a General Officer from the DA staff essentially the same question CPT Anderson asked. Although non-attribution precludes me from identifying the General Officer in question, he represented a section of the DA staff which certainly should be knowledgeable of OPMS and the inner workings of a promotion board.

The question I asked was as follows: "As a Professor of Military Science, I am being encouraged to 'sell' Army Aviation to ROTC cadets as a means to help alleviate the Army's critical shortage of company grade aviators. In view of the dismal selection rates for officers in Specialty 15 and 71 on the recently released majors' list, how could I - with integrity - encourage young men and women to choose a career track which appeared to dead end at the grade of captain?"

The answer given was that I shouldn't assume a "trend" based on only one promotion list, and after all there were aviators on the promotion boards looking out for other aviators. I was also reminded that there were a lot of Army Generals wearing wings.

So, Captain Anderson, there's your answer!

You can tell all the passed over captains that they should not be alarmed at the results of only one board and that their interests are being looked out for by a lot of high ranking folks.

The Vietnam solution

While you're at it, remind them that during the Vietnam War the Army was critically short Captains and Majors and we solved that problem by instantly promoting all Lieutenants to Captain and all Captains to Major.

We now find ourselves short Lieutenants and Captains so we apparently are solving this problem by making sure that Captains don't get promoted to Major. Simple, isn't it?

Party line or integrity?

The next question you need to ask, Captain Anderson, is when did all those General Officer aviators who are looking out for your interests go to flight school? Did they go to flight school as Lieutenants and get where they are as aviators, OR did they get their wings as Lieutenant Colonels and Colonels after, of course, getting all the right tickets punched?

As far as my dilemma, party line versus integrity is concerned, Captain Anderson, I simply tell my cadets that if they want a rewarding 20- or 30-year military career as an aviator, try Air Force ROTC.

Bell Helicopter TEXTION

What's new on the Cobra?

A new AH-1S Cobra has evolved. And its full-resolution computerized fire-control system has already demonstrated unequalled rocket and cannon accuracies.

A revolutionary rocket management system offers a more flexible selection of rocket and warhead types, firing intervals and fuze settings. What's more, the AH-1S can handle other advanced weaponry including Hellfire.

Every ounce of fire power.

This new Cobra is designed to strengthen our anti-armor for the next two decades! Fire control is just one of the AH-1S traits of tomorrow found in the Cobra of today.

Bell's AH-1S Cobra: Everything's new but the name.

AT the time of this writing, we finally have an Authorization Bill and both the House and Senate Appropriation's Committees (HAC & SAC) have marked up their reports. We expect the joint conference to convene in early November. The Army, aviation in particular, seems to be faring reasonably well.

Here's a brief update of my last report:

UH-60A Black Hawk ■■■■■■

The Black Hawk request has cleared all committees unscathed ($1 million in training requirements transferred to another account), but cost growth is beginning to cause problems. The Senate, referring to the Black Hawk as one of the "Big Five", is expecting the Army to fund the full buy as projected over the next few years even if it requires the cancellation of other programs.

Aerial Scout Helicopter (ASH) ■■

The $5 million cut stands for the reasons outlined in my earlier report. Two prominent members of the House Armed Services R&D Subcommittee recently voiced an opinion that a new airframe for an ASH will never be approved — that at best we would have to be satisfied with only new avionics and acquisition capabilities.

SOTAS ■■■■■■■■■■■■

Good news! The Senate acceded to the House; thus, we have the full $66.5 million requested for the Standoff Target Acquisition System (SOTAS).

C-12A Huron ■■■■■■■■■■

The Senate, in agreement with the Authorization Joint Conference compromise, appropriated only 10 of the 20 aircraft approved by the House Appropriations Committee. Thus, the difference is left to resolution by joint conference action.

AH-1S Cobra/TOW ■■■■■■■■

As a result of conference action, the Authorization Bill includes $29.5 million for 15 aircraft and $.5 million for spares. Although the HAC approved 34 aircraft, the SAC has agreed with the amounts in the Authorization Bill making this a joint conference issue also.

Congressional Corner

An update on selected Army Aviation hardware programs that are under review by the Armed Services Committees as reported by Colonel William R. Critten, Jr., OCLL

TADS/PNVS

Northrop's TADS/PNVS for U.S. Army's Advanced Attack Helicopter (AAH) permits AAH to attack and survive at extended standoff ranges, day or night, under adverse weather conditions.

TADS (Target Acquisition Designation System) allows direct view target detection and tracking. Night and long-range target recognition. Laser tracking and range finding.

PNVS (Pilot Night Vision System) provides forward-looking infra-red imagery allowing nighttime nap-of-the-earth flight.

Northrop TADS/PNVS designed specifically for Army AAH. Proven technology derived from Northrop's broad range of electro-optical experience. More than 500 Target Identification Systems delivered to U.S. Air Force for F-4 Phantom. Northrop producing Television Sight Unit for U.S. Navy F-14 Tomcat. Developing electro-optics for Seafire fire control system for Navy surface ships.

Northrop Corporation, Electro-Mechanical Division, 500 East Orangethorpe Avenue, Anaheim, California 92801.

Making advanced technology work.

RU-21 Guardrail V System ■■■■

The $12.5 million added by the House Armed Services Committee (HASC) to the RU-21 Aircraft Modification Guardrail V System was agreed to in the Authorization Joint Conference. This, too, becomes a conference issue between the Appropriation Committees as the Senate added the $12.5 million and the HAC did not.

HELLFIRE ■■■■■■■■■■■■

The $3 million plus, for a total of $61 million for the regular Hellfire missile program, has held through both the Authorization and the Appropriation process; however, the Fire-and Forget Program was denied on the basis of affordability. The Committees simply did not want to see the Army start another program at this time.

Joint 'Copter Training ■■■■■■

The consolidation issue did not even make it through the House this year. Whether or not the Congress will join this battle for joint helicopter training again next year remains to be seen. The Navy has been holding helicopter training expenditures to a minimum while awaiting the outcome of this issue. They are now in a position where they must act soon in order to keep their training "afloat".

TEAC's VIDEO RECORDERS are revolutionizing

...the way we watch TV - in our home as well as on the training range. Oral mission and recon debriefs in Army Aviation are enhanced by video sensors (IR, TV, LLLTV) and recorders. Helicopter Installed TV Monitor Recorder (HITMORE) demonstrates the importance of an on-board video tape recorder for crew training.

TEAC's Airborne Videocassette Tape Recorder (AVTR) is the reliable recorder of choice. Standard equipment on USAF

F-15, F-16, etc., AVTR is specifically designed for rugged airborne environment.

Show your boss or maintenance techs on the ground, anytime, the scene or the problems AS YOU SAW THEM IN THE AIR.
